Mr. Chamberlain sees no bearing in the position taken by Professor Langdell that the Sherman Act is a criminal statute, pure and simple, which does not make the forbidden acts civil torts, since Congress expressly gave the court jurisdiction in equity to restrain such acts; and the power of Congress to do this is unquestioned. He contends that the statute does apply in terms to railway companies, whether or not it was so intended; and at all events considers that question to have been finally settled in United States: 1. TransMtlrnsouri Frezlglt A. r. rooiatzon. The proposition that the carriage of persons and goods is not trade or commerce within 2 of the Act, he regards as too preposterous for comment. And, finally, to the argument that there can be no conspiracy where only one person is concerned, he answers that there were three distinct corporations which were formal defendants on the record as well as real defendants in the untechnical sense.
