Excerpt: . . . 11 would be terribly interested in being part of corporations that didnt do that. So while I dont know exactly what the right formula is, I know this one really stinks. This approach is one that I believe Members here can relate to very well. Senator A. So you are recommending that we look into this KAKA reimbursement Mr. OK. It would make life a little easier for those who are EEEFE out of town. Again, for folks in Washington, DC, it makes no dif-ference. So as a result, it becomes almost a default option that if you have two candidates and one is in D. C. and the other one isnt, sometimes it comes down to the choice on the basis of the fact that if you have someone who is resident here, that almost becomes a matter of convenience. So you are selecting based on geography de-fault here. KAKA Senator A. The Chairman touched on this, and I understand your concerns about divesting ones interests during a market turn-down. What do you feel the government should do in this area that would still allow the public to feel confident that there would be no conflicts of interest on the part of political appointees Mr. OK. Well, I think there are two approaches that, again, EEEFE in my past incarnations I found to be fairly useful, the previous two Presidential appointments that I held that didnt seem to pose any...
